

In MSU math department, evidently many grad students (of Middle Eastern origin) had filed complaints in the MSU's OIE (office of institutional equity) that math Grad Student office practicing discrimination. After much investigation OIE gave its conclusion:

“GS chair is determined to have violated Michigan State University’s Anti-Discrimination Policy”

What happened afterwards to prevent this? not much; math GS chair is still there on that job, and the people who raised their voices publicly, asking for more fundamental changes in that office, are shamed and blamed for making negative propaganda for the math dept.
